

German delegation visits Aqaba

Aqaba, Feb. 26 (Petra) -- Commissioner for the Environment and the Region at the Aqaba Special Economic Zone Authority (ASEZA) Suleiman Njadat on Tuesday, met with a German delegation, specialized in environmental affairs.

The meeting was held as part the third German-Arab Environment and Energy Forum, which was recently held by the Euro-Mediterranean-Arab Association for Economic Cooperation Amman.

Njadat said the delegation was briefed on the importance of environmental projects in the southern city of Aqaba, noting that ASEZA has conducted studies of environmental impact and that the Red Sea shores receive special attention and protection against environmental pollutants.

Head of the delegation, President of the Arab Committee in the German Parliament Gabriela Gruberg said Germany supports the development of Arab-European relations, and deepened German-Jordanian relations in various fields, especially energy, environment and water desalination.

She underlined the German side's interest in holding the Forum in Aqaba to discuss mechanisms of preserving the environment and environmental protection in Jordan and Aqaba in particular.
